All photos are public domain, and the link to the photo source is in the Slide Notes of each slide.

A LEARNING TOOL

POLLUTION - $400

C. bats

Ultraviolet light from energy-efficient bulbs blinds bats. Too much light also makes bats easier to see, exposing them to predators.

SOURCE NOTES INCLUDED WITH EVERY ANSWER SLIDE

Curious where I got my information? I've included source links in the Notes area of every answer slide. Research for this game uses only reputable sources (e.g., NASA, National Geographic, NOAA, EPA, etc.) and is updated every 2-3 years.

NO PREP NEEDED!

HOW TO PLAY THIS GAME:

1. No prep needed! You can play this game "straight out of the box"!
2. Divide students into 4-5 teams. I usually have the teams move desks so they can confer on answers.
3. Keep score on a whiteboard (teacher or student volunteer), or ask one person on each team to keep track of the scores.
4. Team 1 picks a category and dollar amount. Click the question. If the team answers correctly, they "win" that dollar amount.
5. If Team 1 answers incorrectly, Team 2 will get a chance to "steal" the question. If Team 2 answers the question correctly, Team 2 wins that dollar amount and gets to choose another question.
6. If Team 2 answers incorrectly, the question is thrown out. Team 2 gets to choose a new question.

Not sure how to play? I included step-by-step instructions for game play. No prep needed!
