22 DEPARTMENTS

- Guatemala is divided into departments, similar to El Salvador, Honduras, and Nicaragua. Think of the departments like US states. Each department is headed by a governor (US states are also headed by a governor).
- Governors are appointed by the President of Guatemala. Governors are not elected in a popular election, as they are in the US.
- The President of Guatemala is elected by the people every 4 years for one 4-term only.

DISCUSSION QUESTION

Guatemala has lots of natural beauty and is a biodiversity hotspot.

It is home the two largest Mayan pyramids in the world.

Many areas of Guatemala also experience significant poverty, and the country has problems with gang violence, drug trafficking, corruption, water pollution, and poor sanitation.

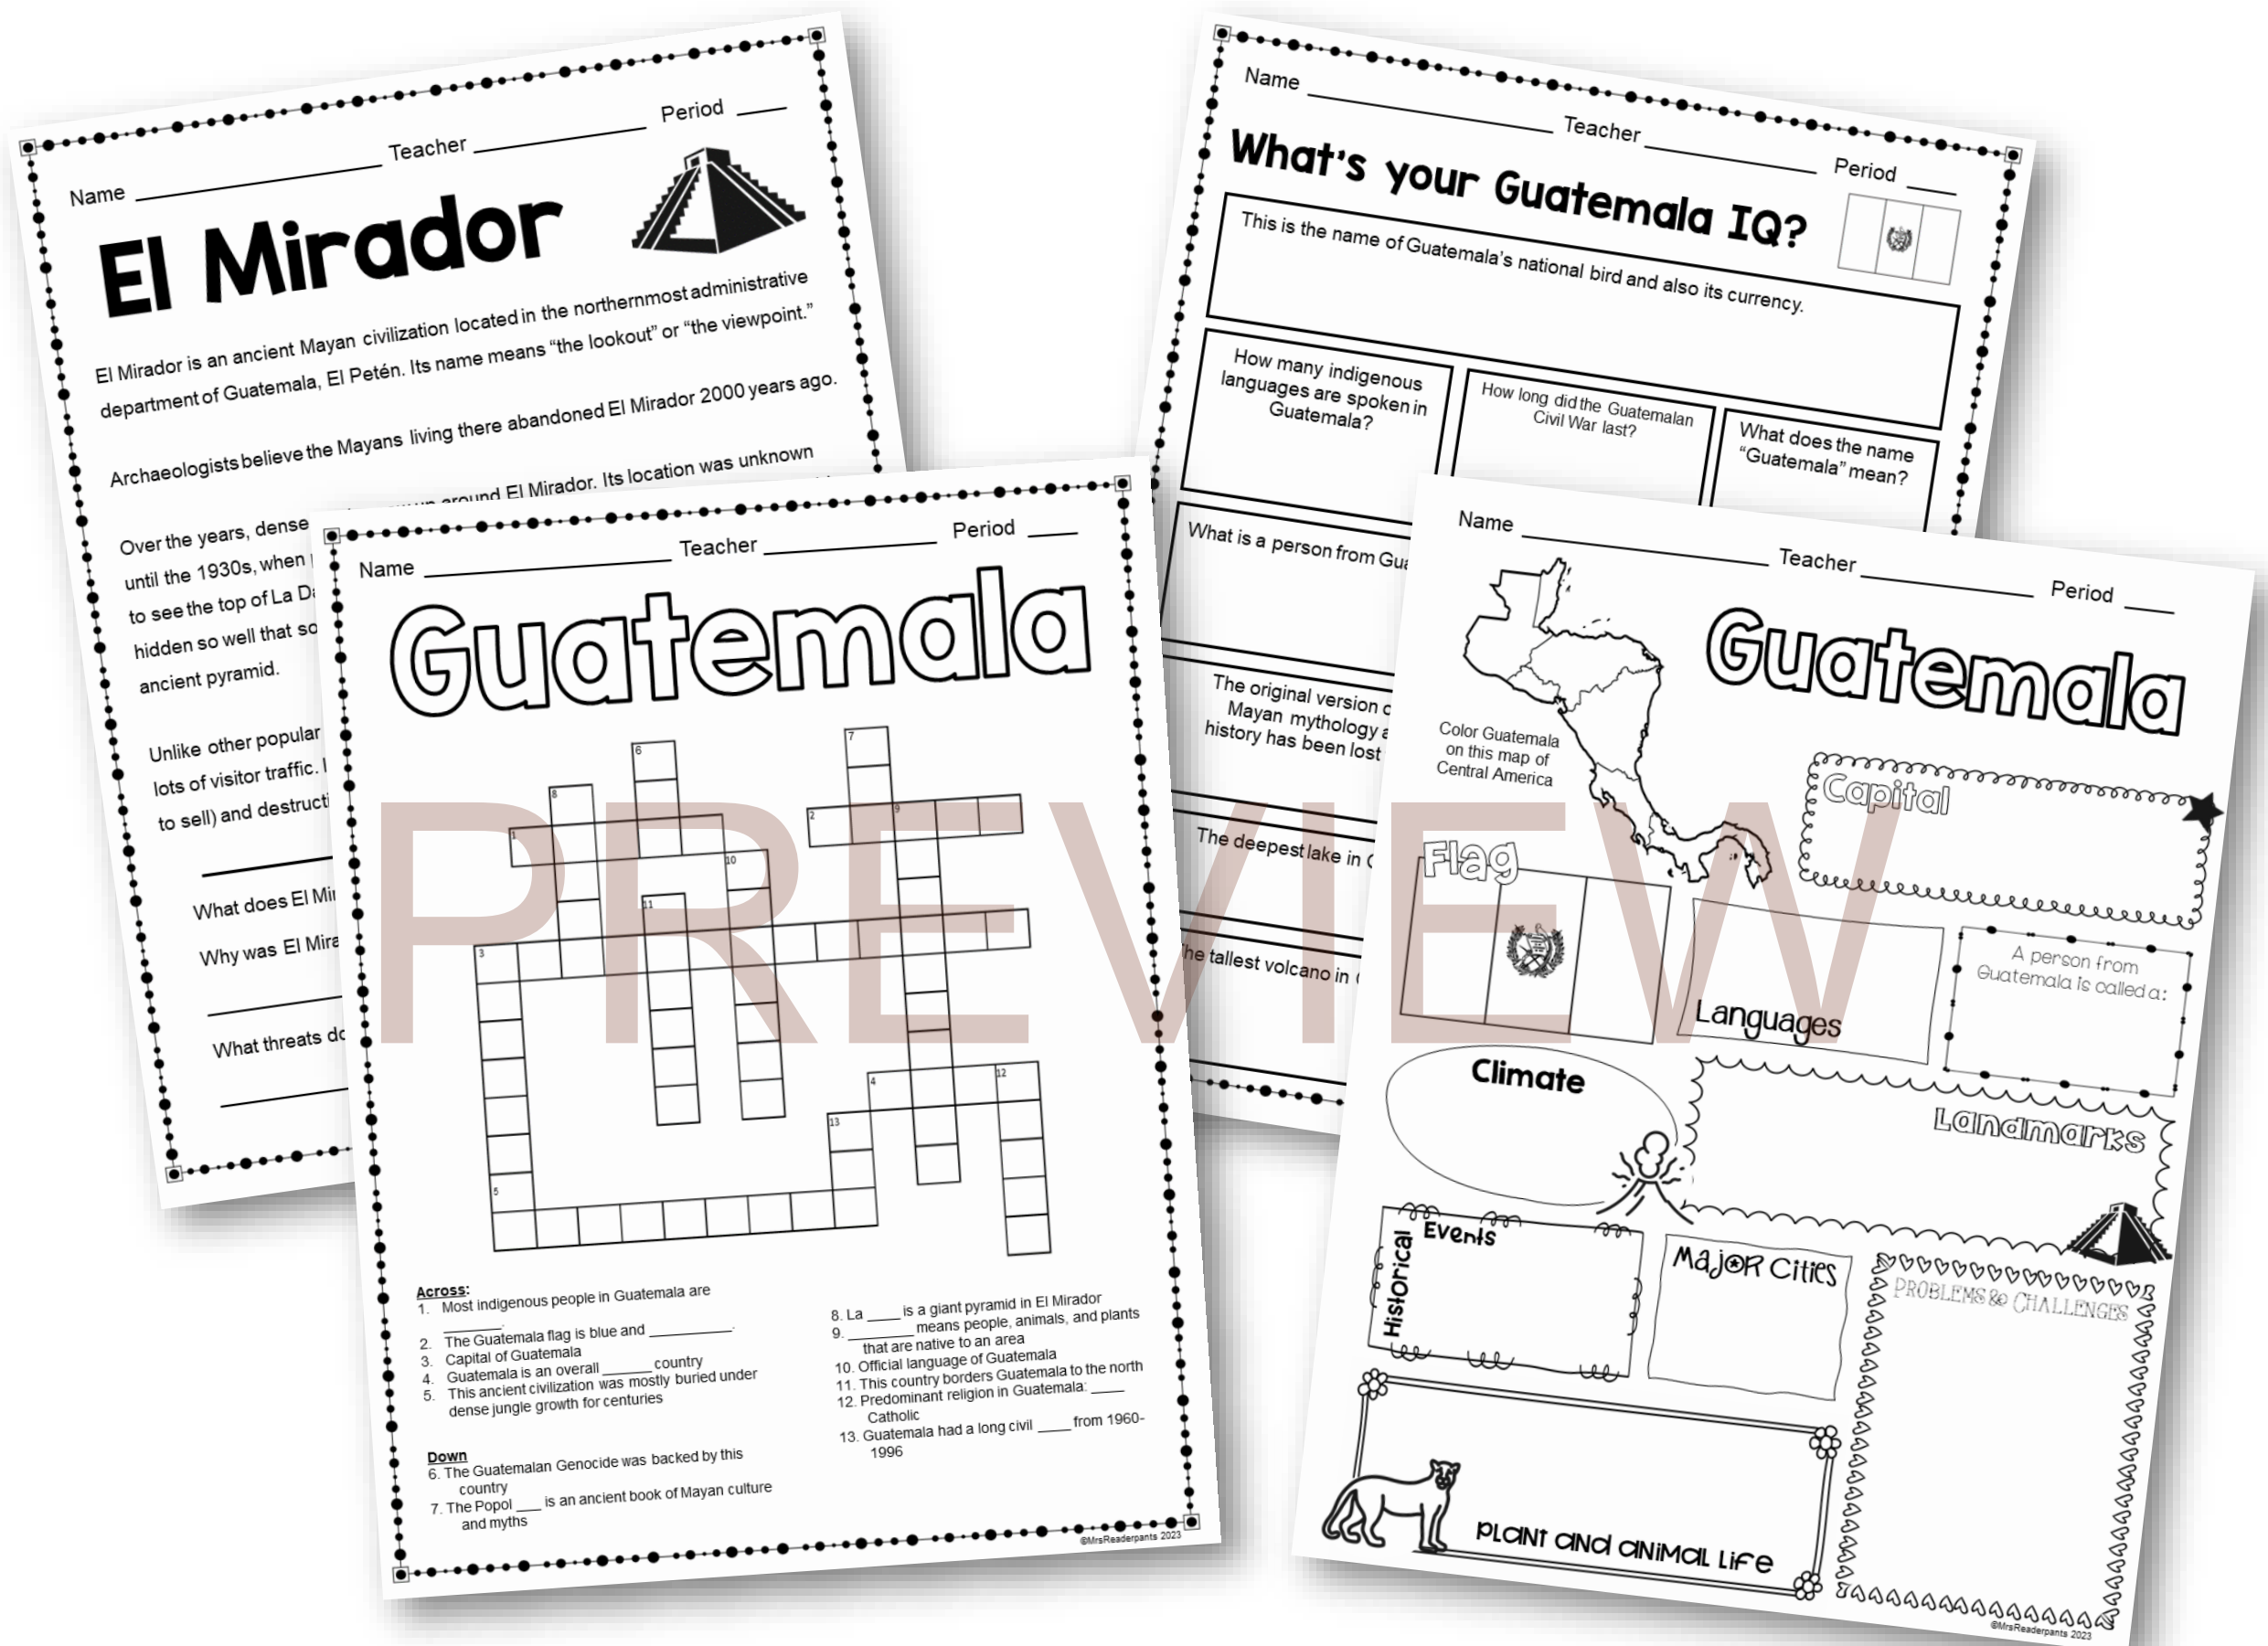

Considering all this, would you want to visit Guatemala? Why or why not?
